

NEW! Planetary Forecast

by John Clinton, Psychic Astrologer

MARCH 2018:

February had no full moon, so March starts with one in the sign of Virgo. An awareness of others and how to help them brings solutions to our separateness. Friday, the 2nd, is great for business and happy moods. This feeling can lead to a very romantic encounter for the weekend. On the world scene, there is a concern for the starving millions while others have plenty. March starts as a month of caring and sharing, and it ends with action for the needy. The Universe is abundant. There is plenty for all. By moving the wheel of charity, we bring round the new and improved life we seek. There could be problems with transportation for 3 weeks starting the 22nd. Events will bring a chance to look within to see who and what we truly are. Meditation is exceptionally good for these 3 weeks. It's a time to plan our personal goals. Realizing our potential can be a gold strike, but spirit must take precedence over ego. Some will feel strained by this concept; others will benefit. The economy could be affected by labor disputes. This all stems from a movement toward higher-minded, humanitarian issues. Business is becoming aware of "instant karma". Be fair to the people, or close shop. Mercury goes retrograde on the 22nd. It would be ill advised to attempt risky activities. This slowing of our thought processes can cause injuries because the brain is not quite keeping up with our body. The 24th has an example of this. The Spring/Vernal Equinox starts at 10:16 am MST March 20th. The chart shows a year of action and character scrutiny. The stars favor business growth on auto-pilot. The economic cycle is in an upswing, yet parts of the economy are just bubbles. Another Blue Moon arrives on the 31st. It only points to the need for peace and balance after a tumultuous final week of March. Things are bursting forth with the growth of spring. Nature's aromatherapy has returned. Can love replace negativity? Action can and will try. Stay tuned.

APRIL 2018:

The Aries part of April is always trying to heat things up and get them growing. April starts with a new plan for infrastructure. This can work. Maybe the benefits can help to pay a little towards the national debt. We are getting too close to the limit for economic survival as a country. Backing away from that pitfall could be more important than tax cuts for the well-off. Also starting April, we see stubbornness from a leader which could be related to violence toward long-standing structures, especially in the Middle East. In America, there will be tearing down of the old, but in a civilized manner. Either way, it will be "explosive". Try not to travel on the 4th/5th as confusion causes injuries. The 7th starts with strange calmness. It can be a time to build a way to bring peace. Quick actions save lives that day. The 10th can be an evening to celebrate after a "reign of terror" is ended. Make a date for that night! If you do, you will see that blossom immediately by the 12th. Crowds and action fill the 14th. This is the perfect day for voices to be heard. No one's spirit is superior to anyone else's. We all have this day to claim our dreams as a right. The word is powerful as Mercury stands still and takes aim on injustices. Though some feel sure they know what is right and can take corrective action, this movement is about group recognition of the truth to protect individual freedom. Emancipation Day on the 17th is poignant to realize man's capacity for cruelty towards other people. Remember, we're all equal spirits who have chosen these bodies to experience the joy of the physical world, but also as a way to perfect ourselves in the mind of a God. Hitler's birthday on the 20th and Pluto turning retrograde on the 22nd can demonstrate the vindictive minds of the world. Most people are not that way unless indoctrinated or raised that way. Earth Day on the 22nd begins something very strong to help save the planet and save us all.
